Ice Blasting Project proves the strength of Rainbow Network

Rainbow International Brighton, Hove, Lewes, Newhaven, Eastbourne and Crowborough, was approached by a contact at Ashford Borough Council regarding a quotation to clean up the remains of a fire in a block of flats. This gentleman wanted the quotation to be received within 24 hours and the work completed within 7 days. He had also approached other cleaning contractors to quote for the work; but found all of these quotes to be too expensive.

Due to the nature of the fire and soot contamination, a blast cleaning process was required. Blast cleaning can be done using different forms of media, for example bead blasting. In this instance, ice blasting was the chosen medium due to its non-abrasive qualities, which also ensures no residue or contaminants enter the environment from the cleaning process.

A Rainbow technician arrived at the site the same day and provided a quotation for everything; including the strip out and content clearance from the flat. He was successful on everything he quoted for, aside from the removing of the contents from the flat.

Three neighbouring branches, were involved in this project, to ensure all works could be completed in a timely manner. All of the technicians have a multitude of experience with this type of restoration work, and helped out on-site with the project. A great example of the seamless service offered by Rainbow International.

Rainbow's Project Manager commented, "Putting this job together in the short time I had was quite demanding as I had to rely on so many other suppliers getting everything on-site at the right time. We also had a fixed window in which to do the work and that deadline had to be met. After the job, I met the council representative on-site and he was very happy with the work we had completed. We finished the job at 15:30, half an hour before the deadline we had promised."

This project shows the strength of the Rainbow network. Every Rainbow branch is committed to a high quality service, is very professional, and has a "can do" attitude. So when one branch
